

Garner Taking Business to Next Level, Graduates Business Development Program

(CINCINNATI; June 2009) On June 18, 2009, Sheryl McClung Garner, founder and president of Envision Learning Center, graduated from The Urban League of Greater Cincinnati's African American Business Development Program (AABDP). The AABDP is a highly selective five-month program designed for African American business owners who want to build sustainable companies that help to create employment opportunities for the community. The key objectives of AABDP are to enhance the skills business owners need to manage and grow sustainable businesses; increase the number of firms that have sales in excess of $250,000; and foster an environment that is focused on growing the number of local African American firms that have more than one employee.
